

A fully equipped OR with just one click: Medical engineering company BERCHTOLD launches new website

Their portfolio includes user-friendly, highly functional surgical lights, surgical tables, ceiling pendants, video and camera systems, and data and communications systems. Customised, full OR solutions are also offered. BERCHTOLD offers competent and extensive support in product planning, design and installation. The new website contains text and images that are informative and compelling. Thanks to a transparent structure, visitors can find the information they want quickly and easily. In addition, a downloadable brochure is available for every product. In the future, the website will include a newsletter subscription service and additional download options. A separate VIP area is also planned. This area will enable the user to access all important information with just one click.

Published on : Thu, 20 Aug 2009