Our commitment to advanced medical technology, patient-friendly environments, and the highest medical standards has been evident throughout. I am convinced that Affidea is the ideal new owner of these two centres, ensuring continuity, and providing added value for the team, patients and the entire region of Baden."*

This is the third investment Affidea has announced this year in Switzerland, after the announcement of opening a breast centre in Ticino, which will allow Affidea to expand its expertise in the areas of prevention, diagnosis, treatment and monitoring of breast cancer. Recently, Affidea also announced important investments in state-of-the-art equipment in the Valais region to enhance the capabilities of its medical facilities.
