

Ascom Holding AG: Ascom appoints Ljubisav Matejevic to lead the Strategic Alliances business

Ascom invests further into its strategic partners business by appointing Ljubisav Matejevic to lead the Strategic Alliances.

In addition to his current positions, he will, together with his team, continue the growth with strategic partners, such as medical device manufacturers and global system integrators, value added resellers, electronic medical record companies, independent software vendors and leading healthcare consultancies around the world.

Ljubisav Matejevic has over 25 years of market and business development experience and a profound expertise in thought leadership. As Global Market Development and Strategy Executive, he represented IBM's Global Healthcare and Life Sciences Business (HCLS).

Prior to that, as the Global Alliance Executive for Healthcare & Life - Science and Public Health, he managed the independently founded Global E-Health Forum to generate and strengthen cooperation across IBM's strategic partners and important stakeholders.
