

Christian Wolf Joins d.velop as Senior Account Executive for Health & Care

Christian Wolf steps into the role of Senior Account Executive at d.velop, bringing over three decades of healthcare experience to advance the digitisation of healthcare facilities. Recognising d.velop's solutions as more than mere administrative tools, Wolf aims to empower healthcare institutions to streamline processes, lower costs, and enhance competitiveness.

Reflecting on his journey from documenting with pens to the current digital landscape, Wolf emphasises the need for practical, user-centric solutions in health IT. He stresses that d.velop's portfolio offers versatile solutions not limited to healthcare, catering to similar challenges across various industries.

Acknowledging disparities in digitisation among sectors, Wolf advocates for proactive measures, citing Thomas Edison's belief in imperfect action over perfect hesitation. He underlines the importance of bridging gaps, connecting everyone and everything for progress.

Excited about the potential of d.velop's platform for content services applications, Wolf looks forward to leveraging its capabilities in healthcare and beyond.
