

To Kelley, it's all part of the "new collar" positions coming into the healthcare position. These are employees within the organisation tasked with security, but with staunch healthcare backgrounds.

"It's looking at security needs with a different approach," Kelley noted. "It's about getting creative."

Source: Healthcare IT News

Image Credit: Pixabay

Published on : Tue, 1 Aug 2017