

Dieter Zocholl- New member of the Supervisory Board at Health Proc European Association

Dieter Zocholl is now a Member of the Supervisory Board at Health Proc European Association. Zocholl has over 20 years of experience, in-depth expertise and profound knowledge in digital health and the European hospital and healthcare service provider sector. On the foundation of this knowledge and his international healthcare network established over the last 20 years, Dieter has launched the first European association for hospital and healthcare procurement managers.

Zocholl is also the Founder & CEO of XMED iQ, the first marketplace for medical consumables and devices in Europe, not financed by the medical industry. Their new AI-based and blockchain enhanced aggregator platform enables European hospitals to benefit from bulk-purchasing and European joint cross-border procurement for medical devices.
