The Children's Collective Inc., a nonprofit human services corporation dedicated to the health and development of the youth and families of South Los Angeles, is proud to announce the appointment of Dr. Lee-Johnson as its new Executive Director.

Motivational speaker, author and trainer, Dr. Lee-Johnson brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to The Children's Collective Inc.'s organization. As an LA native, he steps into this position with a heartfelt commitment to serve the very community that helped shape him.

"It is both an honor and a privilege to return to the community that raised me," said Dr. Lee-Johnson. "I am eager to provide hope, leadership, and support to the families and children of South Los Angeles. I look forward to continuing the transformational work of Dr. Jackie Kimbrough and expanding The Children's Collective Inc.'s services to enhance education, foster deeper community engagement, and tackle poverty alleviation. It truly takes a village, and I'm excited to be a part of this extraordinary journey."

Among his many accomplishments, Dr. Lee-Johnson was named the 2010 Social Worker of the Year by the National Association of Social Workers Region H, worked with the Office of the First Lady for the Helping America's Youth Conference series and spent time doing international family and youth outreach in Nigeria.

"The Children's Collective, Inc.'s staff and clients are excited to welcome Dr. Lee-Johnson as our new executive director," said Dr. Jackie Kimbrough, whose 51-year career as founder and director has led to the organization's thriving success. "His experience strengthening family dynamics will be a tremendous asset as he continues TCCI's mission of improving life outcomes for children, youth and adults."
