
Fish Oil Given Intravenously to Patients in Intensive Care Has Many Benefits, Study Finds

Researchers writing in BioMed Central's open access journal Critical Care investigated the effects of including fish oil in the normal nutrient solution for patients with sepsis, finding a significant series of benefits.

Philip Calder, from the University of Southampton, UK, worked with a team of researchers to carry out the study in 23 patients with systemic inflammatory response syndrome or sepsis in the Hospital Padre Am

Published on : Tue, 19 Jan 2010