

Infectious Bug Shuts Three UK Hospitals

A total of nine wards at Addenbrooke's in Cambridge, Edith Cavell in Peterborough and Peterborough District Hospital have been closed off to all non-essential visitors to help stop the spread of the virus.

The symptoms are diarrhoea and vomiting and the virus can spread easily, especially to vulnerable patients.

Published on : Mon, 14 Dec 2009