Promoting Management and Leadership

Join Canon at the Virtual #ECR2020

□

Canon is happy and excited to participate in the very first online ECR congress. Although it would have been great to meet everyone in person at the company's booth, the team at Canon is convinced that this online edition will be a great success. Health and healthcare is at the heart of everything they do and as an innovation leader in medical imaging, the health and well-being of students, medical-academic and research communities, business partners, suppliers and employees is paramount to Canon.

Visit Canon's Booth

Canon has created a Virtual ECR Expo for virtual participants to explore and discover all their products and technologies. You also have the opportunity to talk to experts from all modalities just as you normally would. You can even make an appointment with one of the representatives from the company after the event.
