

New Position Paper Shows Drop in Reported NSF Cases

Limited data are currently available on the causality of NSF; however, case reports and retrospective studies have demonstrated a strong association with the administration of gadolinium-based contrast agents [GBCAs] in renally-compromised patients, with the development of NSF.

Published on : Tue, 17 Jun 2008