Rachel Dunscombe is the New Chief Executive Officer at openEHR International

Rachel Dunscombe has been appointed as the new Chief Executive Officer of openEHR International, marking a significant milestone for the organisation. Rachel, a prominent figure in both the healthcare and digital innovation realms, is set to usher openEHR International into a new age.

Rachel has dedicated numerous years to being at the forefront of healthcare innovation, with a fascinating career spanning Digital Futures, academia, and government policy consulting. Her excellent insights have won her a well-deserved position on Computer Weekly's renowned UKtech50 list for 2023.

Rachel's prior involvement as a non-remunerated Board Member and Co-Chair at openEHR International demonstrates her commitment to enhancing clinical healthcare via information and technology. Her one-year stint demonstrated her commitment to the organisation's mission of establishing e-health standards and semantic models.

Under Rachel's dynamic leadership, openEHR International is ready to make significant strides in revolutionising healthcare. Join us in congratulating Rachel on her exciting path to change the future of healthcare IT!
